

May 23, 2008

Hi,

Just a quick note for this Friday. Large patch of zoysiagrass is still active in many areas. The rainy weather in parts of Kansas will keep those patches active. There's a photo of some large patch attached.

I have also had 1 or 2 dollar spot samples come in from putting greens, and thick thatch and compaction issues with homeowner lawns.

A few people have sent large patch into the lab for our study. If anyone else out there has some to send you can contact me about shipping it.

--

Megan Kennelly

Assistant Professor

Extension and Research: horticultural crops

